The Silimed BioDesign Range of Polyurethane surface breast implants are available in five styles (conical, round and three anatomical designs) and in four projections per style. So how do you select the right implant for your patient and how do you use them?

There are over 100 medical publications that show polyurethane surface implants significantly reduce the common complications of breast implant surgery, such as capsular contraction, rotation, displacement etc.

However, using them for the first time can be challenging. The addition of the advanced (conical shaped) implant that is not available with any other implant surface, has advantages for certain patients that this meeting will aim to demonstrate.

This meeting is an excellent opportunity to watch, learn and interact with senior surgeons, with a combined wealth of experience, into what works, what complications to expect, how to deal with these and the patients expectations, and in how to use and select implants from the extensive Silimed BioDesign range.

Programme 9.00am until 3.30pm (includes lunch)

Secondary breast augmentation, exchange of polyurethane surface implant.

Primary breast augmentation with Advanced polyurethane surface implants.

Presentations from Senior Surgeons with over 30 years experience of using breast implants, in thousands of cases.

Visit the IC 360° Camera system; a view of how "Hollywood" technology can benefit your practice and patients.

The live surgery and interactive discussions with the surgeons and audience will start at 9.00am and aim to finish at 3.30pm. There will be presentations and discussions throughout the day from surgeons with experience of using the complete range of Silimed BioDesign Polyurethane implants.
